

General information

In order to give you, as a client of Partner in Tax, the best tax advice I have created a combined checklist for the years 2011 and 2012, which states the needed documents to request all the allowances. This combined checklist for the needed documents is not exhaustive, so I urge you to bring/send other documents which you think are relevant. This might be the case in situations like, dismissal, marriage and divorce.

The allowances you can request are the health care, day care and rental allowance plus the personal child budget. If you want to request these allowances for 2011 then you need to do this before the 1st of March 2012.

It also depends on your personal situation if you have a partner for the allowances for the year that you fill in the applications. This is the case when you are married, have a registered partner or if you have a joint household with a housemate for more than 6 months.

As you might know is always possible to fill in a paper tax form, but you also can fill it in electronically. The electronic form for resident taxpayers needs to be signed with a DigiD, an electronic signature, which can be requested via www.digid.nl.
